Educational Philosophy

At Crestmont School, we cultivate a creative learning environment where students become critical thinkers, skillful collaborators, and courageous change-making citizens. To achieve this, we emphasize the following:

Individual Attention

Every child's voice, identity, and expression matters. Our teachers create a curriculum that respects and responds to the dignity and individuality of each child. Our low student-to-adult ratio makes it possible to offer differentiated and flexible teaching styles to meet each child's needs. This educational approach supports children to find and express their unique voice, and to learn how to contribute to positive change in the world.

Social-Emotional Development

We understand that children need both academic and social-emotional competencies to accomplish their goals. We teach and nurture the skills of self-awareness, self-management, awareness of others, relationship skills, and responsible decision-making. These skills foster community and civic involvement throughout a child's life.

Challenging Academics

Crestmont redefines rigor. Our definition of rigor is the result of work that challenges students in new and interesting ways. We design a curriculum that is engaging for students, stretching their thinking and cultivating a love of deep knowledge. Our philosophy focuses on being responsive to children's interests to create meaningful learning experiences, with a balance between well planned strategic lessons and those that are adaptable & driven by curiosity. Given this environment, children ask questions, think critically and creatively, and develop excellent problem-solving skills.

Social Justice Curriculum

We are committed to teaching in a way that empowers students to grapple with real-world problems, co-create solutions, and engage in practical actions. Our social justice curriculum starts with issues of fairness and moves up into environmental, racial and economic justice issues. Students learn about social movements and change. Through these investigations, students develop tools to take action in their community.

Inclusion & Diversity

Inclusion and diversity figure into all aspects of our curriculum including mentoring and social-emotional development. We celebrate and honor the diverse cultures and multiple perspectives of our classroom communities through our carefully designed, evidence-based curriculum.

Multi-age Environment and Mixed-grade Classes*

Crestmont groups students into multi-age classes and across multiple grades for a variety of activities to enhance individual learning. This multi-age environment enables students to work, play and build community across grades. They learn to help, mentor, role model, share, cooperate and lead, building their self-esteem and competence. Teachers develop a deeper understanding of each child, focusing on teaching “learning levels” rather than a “grade level,” which better addresses student needs and the diversity of abilities and ages.

Please note that our intentional multi-age classes and interactions may be limited during the COVID-19 pandemic.*

Childhood

Crestmont honors the spirit of childhood. Encouraging fantasy play and imagination allows each child’s spirit to flourish in his or her young years and beyond.

The Arts

Drama, dance, music, and visual arts play a crucial role in the development of the whole child. The Arts provide an outlet for individual expression, bringing joy and richness to the classroom community. Currently, we offer weekly music instruction, dramatic productions in every class, and visual arts instruction.

Field Studies

Crestmont embraces the application of learning, research, exploration, and experiential learning through a wide variety of field trips, including overnight when possible. Field studies enable students to apply their knowledge and skills in a real-world context and develop a greater understanding of self, place, and subject.

Parent Involvement at Crestmont School

How are parents involved at Crestmont?

Parents help out with the educational program: participating in the classroom, chaperoning and driving on field trips, and managing classroom events.

Parents help out with the functioning of the school: facility improvements and maintenance, fundraising, serving on the Board of Directors, helping with admissions and marketing events, and other key functions.

Parents participate in decision-making: voting on tuition and other fees, the co-op obligations, and other major decisions.

Parents are part of a community of children, faculty and families, learning and growing together. This includes everything from ordinary daily events, to supporting families in need, to annual whole-school celebrations. Our community values are kindness, inclusion, and engagement. For families, being a part of the Crestmont community is often a deeply valuable, unique, and transformative experience.

Why is parent involvement so important?

Two, rather than one, unique sets of knowledge are best for children. Children are most successful when parents and teachers share information and work together to deepen their understanding of each child.

Parents better understand their children. Through their involvement at Crestmont, parents understand their children's school experience, and are therefore better able to support their children.

Children become more resilient. Children thrive when they are known, heard, and have connections with multiple adults.

Children and adults learn first hand about democracy. We are a living, breathing example of democracy in action. Parents, students, and staff all develop the skills of communication, collaboration, and problem solving by working together in this community.

Parent involvement allows your tuition dollars to go farther. Having parents handle some school functions typically managed by paid staff allows us to keep overhead costs and tuition as low as possible.

And finally, our robust level of parent involvement supports our commitment to diversity. By allowing us to maintain an affordable tuition, parent involvement at Crestmont ultimately makes it possible for us to welcome families who may not otherwise have access to an independent school education.

What are the Co-op Responsibilities?

Being a family at Crestmont School means being a part of a cooperative. The responsibilities required of families to keep our co-op functional are flexible, and a wide variety of families find it possible to meet these expectations. The responsibilities can be completed through helping the school with various activities and tasks, and/or “buying out”^{*} rather than completing some or all of the obligations. Please note that charges will be applied for failure to complete co-op obligations.

1. Monthly Meetings: All families, even those buying out of an obligation, are expected to attend monthly membership meetings which are held on the first Thursday of each month. Families may have one unexcused missed meeting.
2. Family Job*: Each family has a specific co-op job each year - this will be assigned to you and you may express interest in a certain area. There is a wide variety of jobs: room parent, graphic design, fundraising team, event coordinator, and more. Note that hours spent on family jobs do not count towards required community hours unless you hold a Chair or Board role.
3. Required Community Hours*: 20 service hours per family. These hours may be fulfilled in a number of ways including volunteering in classrooms, driving/chaperoning on field trips, volunteering at various fundraising, marketing, and admissions events, and doing extra maintenance work.
4. Maintenance Parties: Families are required to participate in two maintenance parties which take place on Saturdays. Families are assigned to one maintenance party in August and may choose another date during the school year.

Buy Out Options - Families have the option to buy out of the Family Job and/or the Community Hours requirement. This option is on a first come first serve basis and is only available to a maximum of 10% of the family population.

Community Hours Buyout

No service hours required. Must fulfill two required maintenance parties and hold a family job.

$1,700.00

Family Job Buyout

No family job required. Must fulfill two required maintenance parties and community hours.

$2,200.00

Sabbatical Year:

Families who have fulfilled Community Obligations for 6 years may choose to have a sabbatical in their 7th year at Crestmont School. This means they may choose to not hold a family job or not perform 20 service hours. Families must still fulfill 2 required Maintenance Parties.

Financial Aid for the 2022-2023 Academic Year

Tuition is currently set at $19,794 for all grades and is voted on by membership every year at the January co-op meeting. Financial assistance is available for applicants who demonstrate financial need. The goals of Crestmont's financial aid program are to facilitate a socio-economically diverse student body. The school uses the services of School and Student Services (SSS) to evaluate a family's financial need. In addition, Crestmont has a supplementary application.

When considering financial aid requests, the Crestmont Financial Aid Committee will take into account the recommendation of SSS as well as other factors such as the number of applicants for aid that year and the amount of money available. The decision to award financial aid and how much to award is solely up to the members of the Crestmont Financial Aid Committee. Decisions are made independently from admissions decisions and do not affect an applicant's opportunity for acceptance. All financial information submitted is held in confidence.

To apply for financial aid, please submit the following by Monday, February 1, 2022.

1. Submit online the School and Student Services (SSS) Parents' Financial Statement (PFS) available at <https://sssandtadsfa.force.com/familyportal/>. Crestmont's school code is 2545.

All forms must be completely filled out, signed and turned in by the deadline of Monday, February 1, 2022 in order to be considered for financial assistance.
